All works: steel 20 x 20 x 20 cm

The sculptures Two things are possible 1-8 are made from materials found, given, and purchased. Two things are possible 1-2 were made in New York City, Two things are possible 3-4 were made between New York and Milan, and Two things are possible 6-8 were made in Milan. The sculptures proceed sequentially from the entrance to the back of the gallery. Steel obtained in New York City is nearly identical to that in Milan, as the standards related to the global commodity differ minimally from place to place. Steel is predominantly used to create structures of vertiginous certainty.
